DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- Claims 1-30, drawn to a method for measuring brain activity, classified in class 600, subclass 407.
- II. Claims 31-34, drawn to a method for evaluating a treatment, classified in class 424, subclass 9.2.
- III. Claims 35-37, drawn to a method for evaluating a stimulus, classified in class 600, subclass 300.
- IV. Claim 38, drawn to a system for measuring brain activity, classified in class 600, subclass 408.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the process could be used for measuring raw brain activity without a neural network processor.

Inventions I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as measuring brain activity to make a diagnosis without treatment. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions II and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention III has separate utility such as administering a non-therapeutic stimulus to a patient. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions I and III are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I has separate utility such as measuring spontaneous CNS activity. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Barry Gaiman on 9/18/02 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.
